

Hot ▼

All Posts ▼

Need help getting into DC

13

2 months ago by MysticMurderBag +13 / -0

Me and a buddy are almost to DC, going to get a hotel about an hour outside the city. But we are concerned about how we are going to get in tomorrow - we can drive but we are iffy about parking and road closures. Does anyone have any recommendations for parking or does anyone have room for two extra pedes in their caravan?

4 comments share save hide report block hide child comments

Comments (4)

sorted by: top ▼▲ SilentGuardian 2 months ago +2 / -0

2 ▼ There's another post that shows you can park at DCA for $20/day and either walk in (4 miles) or take the train. Sorry I can't help more. If I see the post again I'll link. Thanks for doing what you're doing. Edit: Found the post <https://thedonald.win/p/11Rh1U0qE2/for-those-driving-to-dc-convenie/c/>

permalink save report block reply▲ Connectthedots 2 months ago +2 / -0

2 ▼ Stay near a metro station and take the metro in. The silver line goes deep into Virginia. Red line north, blue south. You won't be able to drive.

permalink save report block reply▲ Atm1901 2 months ago +2 / -0

2 ▼ Take metro (subway) into city. u can park at metro station. What area are you staying in. Im in Maryland.

permalink save report block reply▲ RingZero 2 months ago +1 / -0

1 ▼ I ubered in today from Arlington ...

permalink save report block reply